Fabrizio Di Meo, as president of AIMIP, agrees on the need for an international registry for idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis as auspicated by Dr J Wilson (source):
<<Improved survival from idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis (IPF) is dependent on better understanding of the epidemiology of the disease, its diagnostic spectrum in global terms and an analysis of outcomes from emerging therapies at a significant level. Outside major lung transplant centres, few institutions have significant numbers to provide this information. Relevant examples exist to justify the establishment of registry data to achieve these aims.>>
Any Respiratory Health Center or MD/PhD interested on international registry for IPF may get in touch with us: info@aimip.org

Let's work together against idiopathic pulmonary fibrosis, many affected people are awaiting for an answer.
